MOTORMAN PLEADS GUILTY TO CHARGE OF SPEEDING

Motorman Browwell, who was in charge of the Pacific Electric three-car train which caused the death of Miss Eugenia Lindsey of Los Angeles and the serious injury of her sister, at the Los Feliz crossing early in May, appeared before Judge Lowe for trial this morning, having been overruled by the judge several days ago, as narrated in the Daily Press. Browwell's attorney pleaded guilty to the charge, but the judge, in order to be perfectly fair toward the defendant, said that he would hold the case in abeyance until June 9, when he will take evidence to determine, if possible, the actual speed at which the train was traveling.

ANNUAL ART EXHIBIT AT HIGH SCHOOL IS EXCELLENT

Includes a Study in Beauty and Harmony in Houses and Gardens—For Demonstration Each Room Is Furnished—Good Taste Displayed

A man's value is determined by his wisdom, his preference, his wisdom, his wealth of sympathy and love, his largeness and fullness of life. What he simply knows may be lost sight of in the estimate.

Any study, then, that tends to develop his taste for things beautiful, make him more wise, increase his wealth of sympathy and love, his largeness and fullness of life, is eminently worthwhile. Other studies may help him to make a living; the cultural studies help him to make a life, to have resources within himself that help him to get joy out of life—and since, after all, a man can never get away from himself, are not these cultural studies perhaps the most useful?

Anyone who has visited or will visit today or tomorrow the annual exhibit of art classes of the high school will see the force of the above contention, for the exhibit is an outward sign of the inward grace of appreciation of beauty which has been devel-

"MRS. TEMPLE'S TELEGRAM" CROWDS THE PALACE GRAND

This Play Was Finest Ever Shown in Glendale—Each Character Portrayed by Best Professional Talent—If You Want to Enjoy a Good Laugh and Be Pleasantly Entertained Be Sure to Attend Tonight—Should You Fail to Go You Will Regret It—Go Early for Good Seat

In the opinion of everyone in the large audience that filled the Palace Grand theater last evening, the Elks show, "Mrs. Temple's Telegram," is by long odds the best thing of its kind seen here this season—or, in fact, for many a long day.

No doubt Glendale Lodge, B. P. O. E., No. 1289, could pack the same theater twice a week at least, as they did last night, if they put on each time as good a farce comedy with the same all-professional, all-star cast under the personal direction of W. Mead Chapman.

The sympathy of the entire audience was with Jack Temple (Norval MacGregor), from the moment when he told his wife the simple, unvarnished truth and was forced by her lack of belief in his story to invent one not truthful, but more plausible, little dreaming that this small, white lie was to father a flock of monstrous, black ones that would come home, like chickens to roost, to destroy his peace of mind and menace his happiness.

Mr. MacGregor's portrayal of this character is so natural, so true to life that one quite forgets he is acting a part, and follows the vicissitudes that result from the lie into which Mrs. Temple had badgered him with amused but sympathetic interest.

W. Mead Chapman as Frank Fuller, alias John Brown, whose attempts to straighten things out for his friend Jack only complicate the trouble is just as good in his part as Mr. MacGregor is in his—and that's as high praise as could be given him.

Miss Georgie Cooper as Mrs. Temple shows intelligent and sympathetic understanding of the fond wife, generous and warm-hearted, whose only fault is her unreasonable jealousy, and portrays the character with the skill of a true actress.

William Brunton takes the part of Wigson, the butler; he is a capital

SWOLLEN STREAMS WASH OUT TRACKS

PUEBLO, Col., June 3.—Swollen streams as a result of heavy rains in the Arkansas valley region have washed out large sections of the tracks of the Santa Fe railroad, making it necessary to detour several transcontinental trains, it was announced by railroad officials here today. The California Limited, west-bound, was routed over the Missouri Pacific tracks from Scott City, Kan., to Lajunta, Colo., and continued over the southern route to California. Mail and express trains were routed similarly.

character actor and brought down the house, time after time.

Miss Edith Cooper is Dorothy, Mrs. Temple's younger sister, and she plays the part of the dainty, sensitive young girl who isn't sure whether she's in love with Captain Sharpe (Jack Weatherby) in a most natural, charming manner.

Billy Fay as John Brown is another really great character actor; in fact, he's a "scream." As for Mrs. Georgie Woodthorpe's gifts in the line of character-acting—well, she's simply imitable as "Mrs. John Brown of Pickleton, on the Thames." In make-up, voice, gesture, dialect, she's the cockney Englishwoman to the life.

Mrs. Beulah C. Dunbar as Mrs. Fuller is very good, taking most acceptably the part of the innocent wife who is the victim of circumstances and a bawky Ferris wheel.

Jack Weatherby is the frank, manly young Captain Sharpe, in love with Dorothy and he not only looks the part but acts it.

Granting that the performers are all professionals of high repute, it is seldom that one has such a treat, even among professionals, as perfect depicting of their parts combined with the cultured voices and clear, distinct enunciation that mark the work of the cast in "Mrs. Temple's Telegram," and that add so much to one's enjoyment of a play. The costumes worn by the Misses Georgie and Edith Cooper are beautiful and appropriate.

"Mrs. Temple's Telegram" is again the attraction at the Palace Grand tonight, and those who saw it last night should be unselfish enough to stay at home tonight, in order that that part of the population of Glendale who has not yet seen the play may have the seats tonight; for no one will want to miss this event—and it is an "event" when Glendale is privileged to see such a show as "Mrs. Temple's Telegram," put on by such a cast as the Elks have been fortunate enough to secure.

PUPILS OF COLORADO SCHOOL GIVE FINE PROGRAM AT THE FINAL MEET

At the last and highly interesting meeting of the Colorado Street Parent-Teacher association which took place Thursday afternoon, the program was given by the children of the school. It opened with recitations by representatives of the fourth grade. Then the poem, "The Blue and the Gray," was put on in a dramatic form by six girls, garbed in blue and gray, and a boy who read the verses. A beautiful drill was given by third grade pupils costumed in red, white and blue and led by little Katherine Dotson, carrying a large silk flag. An excellent talk was made by Superintendent R. D. White on matters of general school interest.

Punch and cake were served by the teachers, and then a business session was held at which reports from all the officers and chairmen were received.

The new president, Mrs. Dotson, and her associates in office were installed, and she and the new vice-president, Mrs. Perry, were presented with beautiful ferns in appreciation of their year's work. Mrs. B. L. Cline made the presentation speech and then the girls who had taken part in "The Blue and the Gray" number, presented to all the outgoing officers bouquets of yellow flowers gathered on the school grounds.

DRUGGERY IS BANE OF GIRLS

(By International News Service)
NEW YORK, June 3.—Why do girls leave home?

Investigation of the cases of a number of girls found missing has been made here and in each case a different excuse for the girl leaving home was given.

Miss Beatrice Dietz, 16, living in Brooklyn, worked in a paper box factory. At night she returned to her sick father in a two-room flat. One day in February she disappeared and has never turned up. Her father said:

"She was very fond of dancing and fun, but her work gave her no time. She used to come home feeling depressed. I can't imagine why she left home unless she wanted a change or something."

Wanted Pretty Things

The mother of Anna Vohrer, 17, told another story. She lives in Manhattan. Mrs. Vohrer said: "Anna is such a pretty girl. She has wonderful eyes and big lashes and perfect skin. Ever since she was a child she attracted admiration. She used to stay out nights. Then she wanted pretty clothes and other finery which I couldn't afford. One day she left home."

"She was gone for a month. Then, unexpectedly, when we had given up hope, she came in again. In a few days she left again, saying the house was too dull. I have not heard from her since."

This One Stage Struck

Loretta Krankowitz, 15 years old, also of Manhattan, disappeared in January. Her parents say that after she disappeared she sent them a note, saying she had gone out to Los Angeles to get a job in the movies. Afterward she wrote that she had obtained a position as a dancer. Her brother said:

"She was always stage struck. She'll come back soon."

AUDIENCE ASSEMBLES FOR ZONING ORDINANCE HEARING

No Discussion Takes Place and Hearing Continued—Board Drops Further Action on Central and Broadway Opening and Grants Permit to Mr. Offutt to Establish Oil Station—Oak Street Improvement Hearing on June 6

Quite an audience assembled at the city hall Thursday evening for the meeting of the board of city trustees. It was the general supposition that they assembled for the hearing of protests to be filed against the proposed zoning ordinance, but as none had been filed and no verbal criticism was offered, the hearing was continued. In that connection, Mr. Person addressed the board, asking if they intended passing a zoning ordinance based on the recommendations of the zoning committee. Trustee Bartlett, who was presiding, replied that it was the opinion of the board that it would be better to discuss with the public the proposed ordinance before passing it and thus avoid the necessity of rescinding any action it might take. Mr. Person then objected that because the proposed ordinance had not been published he and other citizens were not in a position to discuss it intelligently. City Manager Watson then stated that he would mail a copy of the ordinance as drafted, with all necessary data, to Mr. Person.

In the absence of President Stephenson, Trustee Bartlett was asked to preside.

Telephone Pole Bids
The first business taken up by the board was the opening of bids for telephone poles. Twelve bids were received which varied considerably in their figures and they were referred to the city manager for checking and report.

Bids for Water Bond Issue
The next item was the opening of bids for the $100,000 issue of water bonds. The list of bidders included Security Trust & Savings bank, William R. Staats & company, R. H. Moulton company, and the Citizens' National bank. They were referred to the city manager for checking and report, and later in the session he reported that the bid of the Security Trust & Savings bank which offered a premium of $1050, was the best bid and on his recommendation, the board

GEORGE GRIST IS FOUND NOT GUILTY

George Grist's trial yesterday before a jury in Judge Lowe's court on the charge of exceeding the speed limit on West Broadway, between Brand and Central, on the night of May 19, while taking a truckload of guardsmen to their homes in Burbank, resulted in a verdict of acquittal. Two police officers, Collins and Trautwein, also a civilian, testified that their stop watches showed a speed of 28 miles an hour through the trap. George and his eight passengers were positive in their testimony that they were not going faster than 15 or 16 miles an hour. Meyer Henneke from the district attorney's office prosecuted and Bert Woodard defended. A similar case against Deputy Courts of the sheriff's office, which was to come up before a jury on the 7th was dismissed by Judge Lowe.

Slapstick for Arbuckle

Roscoe Arbuckle, Paramount comedy star, is returning to his first screen love, slapstick comedy. This reversal of policy is directly due to the expressed wishes of fans and exhibitors. This does not mean that his pictures of the future will be of the rough-house variety, but it does mean that he will be given full liberty to inject mirth-making situations into his work and to take liberties with scenarios just so long as he scores the point desired. His five-reel refined comedies have gone over successfully, but exhibitors say that fans miss his oldtime verve and apparent disregard for life and limb and many fans are of record as saying that the exhibitors have correctly expressed their sentiments.

Typists' fingers are the most amazing travelers in creation and are capable of going tremendous distances without the fatigue that would come to the feet and legs in performing a similar journey. In ordinary typewriting the hand may travel, according to an expert, 10,000 miles a year and not indicate any impairment in efficiency. This refers, of course, to the average typist in an office.

voted to accept it, subject to the approval of the city attorney, to whom it was referred.

Improvement District Bonds
The opening of bids for the purchase of bond issue of municipal district No. 3, was called for, but no bids were reported.

Broadway and Central Opening
The petition for the opening and proposed cut-off at the corner of Broadway and Central and the estimates of cost were called for, and City Manager Watson stated that they were in the hands of Mr. Thompson, who had undertaken to circulate them. Trustee Lapham stated he had talked with many of the residents of the district and found a strong sentiment against the improvement on account of the excessive cost. He therefore moved that the board abandon any further action along that line and grant a permit to Mr. Offutt for an oil station on that corner, Mr. Offutt having waited a long time for a reply to his application for a permit. The motion carried.

Protection at Southern Pacific
Clarence Kimlin then addressed the board relative to the dangerous conditions at the point where Brand boulevard crosses the Southern Pacific tracks and recited his own narrow escape the day before, when he failed to see or hear an approaching train and barely cleared the track with his automobile. He urged that action be taken to provide a guard at that point pending the installation of some permanent protection by the railroad company, declaring that he feared life would be sacrificed unless there is something of this sort done by the city. On motion of Trustee Lapham, the board instructed City Manager Watson to take up the matter with the Southern Pacific and with the members of the railroad and public utilities committees of the Chamber of Commerce, which have been working on the problem.

MILDRED HARRIS TO APPEAR AS DANCER

Mildred Harris is to be one of the stellar principals of Cecil B. de Mille's forthcoming Paramount special. She will share honors with Dorothy Dalton, Conrad Nagel and Theodore Kosloff, who comprise the main group of the cast. A supporting cast of equal brilliance has been selected for the minor roles.

Miss Harris is cast as a stage actress and dancer, a role which she is particularly well fitted for, because of her training as a dancer and stage ability. Theodore Kosloff, who ranks as the world's premiere interpretive dancer, has been training Miss Harris in the special ballet which she portrays on the stage.

RICHARD GRIDLEY CHAPTER'S 'WHITE ELEPHANT' INSPIRING

Fine Address by Mrs. Braly on "Effective Thinking"—Toasts Are Given by Other Members of Daughters of the American Revolution Chapter

The White Breakfast is the big event in the year for General Richard Gridley Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, and not only has the fame of this function gone abroad throughout the land, but it has found many imitators among other chapters. It took place Thursday at La Ramada as announced in this paper. About forty were present, and as usual, the table was centered with gleaming white Matillaja poppies.

The program which followed the luncheon opened with a salute to the flag. Then Mrs. Addison replied to the toast: "A Mile of Poppies," and at the conclusion, $114 was reported as the day's contribution to the Maternity cottage in which the organization is so deeply interested. Of this sum, $50 was given by Mr. Braly. The gracious toastmistress, Mrs. T. W. Preston, then called upon others who responded to toasts as follows: Mrs. Goss, "The Flag"; Mrs. Rathbun, "Maternity Cottage"; Miss Myers, "The Albion School," a most unique report of the work of the chapter at that settlement.

Mrs. Follansbee's "Our Regent," an eloquent tribute to Mrs. Braly, expressed the great affection in which she was held by her fellow members. Mrs. Gates gave an account of chap-

ST. MARK'S CHURCH GAY WITH LOVELY FLOWERS AND BOOTHS

The grounds of St. Mark's church at Louise and Harvard streets were gay with picturesque booths and flower-decked stands yesterday, the occasion being the all-day fete held by the ladies of the church.

Red and white, pink and white, and green and white were the various color schemes carried out in the several booths where fancy work, aprons, sachets and ribbons, ice cream, candy and other desirable things were sold.

A goose with so voracious an appetite, one might fancy he was voluntarily preparing himself for a new kind of pate de foie gras, gobbled dimes and quarters and even larger coins ravenously, giving in return small gifts, but no change. How could one expect a goose to know how to make change?

At noon a business men's luncheon was served to a large crowd and in the evening about 200 enjoyed the sumptuous dinner prepared by the ladies.

Congenial company and loose purse-strings combined to make the affair a great success, socially and financially, although the ladies in charge are too tired today to reckon up the exact amount that accrues to their coffers from the fete.

Guests of honor for the day were Bishop and Mrs. Stevens of Los Angeles, Dr. Cornell and his family, and Rev. Bugbee of Whittier.

Ladies in charge of the successful affair were Mrs. Frank England, general arrangements of lunch and dinner; Mrs. J. B. Chapman, ice cream booth; Mrs. C. Russ, "hot dogs"; Mrs. R. H. Downing and Mrs. Crampton, in charge of the goose; children's booth, Mrs. Mortimer Baker, assisted by Mrs. M. K. Smith and Miss Ellen Williams; Mrs. Goodwin, caps, sachets and ribbons; Mrs. F. T. Howland, assisted by Mmes. Rose Humphreys and C. L. Hill, bags, fancy and useful; Miss Helen Campbell and Mrs. J. F. Cate, apron booth; Mrs. F. Card, linen booth.

ters she had visited on the Atlantic coast and in the middle west during a recent tour.

Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward, who responded to "The American Legion," dwelt on the fact that the ideals of the Legion are practically the same as those of the D. A. R.; that during the war we had an increase of our patriotic desires and aspirations and now we should foster those ideals and keep them burning as brightly as ever, should help the boys of the American Legion live up to them and take their proper place in the life of our country as worthy leaders, that everyone may see the same magic in our flag that the French saw when it was carried through the streets of Paris.

Mrs. Dow responded to "Americanization," concluding with a fine quotation from Theodore Roosevelt. Mrs. Braly then installed her fellow officers and made a little address which was an inspiration to all who heard it. It was as follows:

"We, Daughters of the American Revolution are the living representatives of our Puritan ancestors who founded, in Christian faith, and with God's blessing, this wonderful coun-

Chas. Keenan Speaks On Danger Elements in U. S.

Charles J. Keenan Appeals to Chamber Members To Combat the Red Flag in This Country—Gives Significant Figures Relative to Foreign Population

As a preliminary to setting forth at the Chamber of Commerce Forum the problem with which the United States is face to face in dealing with the bolshevistic elements that are working in this country, Charles J. Keenan, representing the employment bureau of the American Legion in Los Angeles, gave some significant figures relative to foreign populations. Said he:

"We have in the United States 10,255,000 negroes. Add to that number 336,140 Indians and add to that total 34,000,000 foreigners, of which 14,000,000 were born on the other side of the water. Then take into the reckoning 1500 newspapers printed in foreign languages. Then you will find 5,500,000 persons above the age of 10 years who cannot read or write the English language and 5,000,000 who cannot speak it.

"In the city of New York you will find a German population that is fourth largest in the world and an Italian population larger than that of Rome. It is also said that in our recent and last war there were more Greeks subject to draft in the United States than there were soldiers in the Grecian army.

"New York at the present time can be set down as 76½ per cent foreign and Chicago as 67 per cent foreign. Only five weeks ago, when they had to send out requests pertaining to labor conditions in that city they had to be printed in 27 different languages.

"Four hundred and twenty-six newspapers are going up and down the length and breadth of this country that stand for the overthrow of the government that are printed in English and foreign languages, and there are 146 more that come in from foreign countries.

"April 21, 1921, according to the congressional records published at Washington, D. C., it was shown that out of a little over 11,500,000 foreigners in this country, only 1,256,816 were naturalized. In other words, for every one that is naturalized you will find eight that are not naturalized.

"In Chicago I can show you a building that is printing morning, noon and night in 33 different languages literature advocating the overthrow of the government. In the city of Milwaukee each and every Sunday are 5000 men distributing literature that stands for the same thing.

"I want you to get down into Southern California, where are all interested. In the city of Los Angeles the 10th day of January over 45,000 pamphlets were circulated by one of these 'ism' classes that contained these words: 'So we say, let us start till more and ever more we fill and flood every dirty lousy jail that constitutes a living blot on the pages of American history that calls itself the home of the brave and the land of the free.'"

He then described the operations of Steffens and Tucker, who packed Trinity Auditorium with an audience of 3200 people at 50 cents a head and then took up five different collections to provide soap for Russia. The meeting opened with the "Marseilles" and not an American air was played

ENCYCLOPEDIA OF GLENDALE HISTORY

When anybody wants to know about conditions in this locality before Glendale was Glendale and had taken on city airs, they are always referred to J. C. Sherer, who has been here since 1878, and has therefore had an opportunity to witness all the growth that has taken place. A great lover of nature, he took advantage of the opportunities of those early days to acquire acreage on Verdugo road, which he christened Somerset farm, and which he has beautified until it is known as one of the show places of the valley, though the term "show" cannot in this instance be understood to mean the formal gardening that marks some of the landscape architecture of Southern California.

When asked to tell something about his early life here and his connection with the growth of the district, he hesitated because he is a modest man, but yielding to insistence and because he has played many parts in the up-building of the valley, he finally gave some facts which have been incorporated in the following record of his life and activities:

J. C. Sherer came to Los Angeles a young man in 1878 and was employed for several years as a telegraph operator, being at different times chief operator in that city for both the Western Union and the Postal Telegraph companies. While thus employed he invested in land on Verdugo road, which he still holds, and, ably assisted by his wife, one of the pioneer women of the valley who passed away two years ago, built up one of the most attractive homes in this section, well known as Somerset farm. After acquiring this land he became greatly interested in the question of cooperative growers' associations, and was one of the organizers of the Glendale Fruit Growers' Union, which did business for two seasons in drying the deciduous fruit belonging to its members in this section, which was then largely covered with orchards of apricots, peaches and prunes. In 1896 he was one of the organizers of the Southern California Fruit Exchange in Los Angeles, a cooperative association of fruit growers which has since grown to big proportions, for many years past handling the bulk of the citrus fruit crop of this portion of the state.

He was one of the public school trustees of the early days, acting in that capacity when the ground was acquired for the school on Broadway and when the first school building was erected there. Of conditions at that time Mr. Sherer says: "It was pretty difficult to put bond issues through at that time, and the early settlers when they wanted a schoolhouse, a church or any other public institution could not call upon the taxpayers with any assurance of getting it, but had to go down in their pockets and take up subscriptions for the public good.

An addition was in this way made to the land acquired for school purposes, the people of the immediate neighborhood raising money with which to purchase two additional lots, which they donated to the district.

Every church that was built collected money for the building from the people of the community irrespective of denominational lines. When the Glendale hotel (now Glendale Sanitarium) was converted into a seminary it was endowed with subscriptions of money by the residents whether they had children to be educated or not. Even the Southern Pacific Railroad company, before it would establish the station, which was named Tropico by the company, insisted upon having the land donated in addition to $1000 raised among the people for building the station. Yes, those were the good old time of direct but voluntary taxation.

When the Bank of Glendale was organized in 1905, Mr. Sherer was its first cashier, acting in that capacity until January, 1907, when he and Mr. E. B. Riggs purchased a local newspaper. Mr. Sherer bought out his partner a few months later and published the paper until March, 1913, when he sold out to the present owner. He was the first treasurer of the city, serving until he resigned the position a year and a half later.

He was first elected city clerk in 1914, and in April, 1920, was elected for the fourth time, without opposition, for a four-year term, cut short by the adoption of a charter to a period of 14 months, and is now a candidate for the position as the first city clerk under the charter organization.

DON'T BE CONTENTED

The activities of the Red Cross are many and varied. Among its more recent achievements is the beautifying of Ellis Island. It is said that formerly no more barren spot existed along the Atlantic coast than this little island which is the immigrant's first glimpse of America. Aliens detained at the Ellis Island hospital for treatment for minor physical ailments before being admitted to the United States have had for outlook a practically treeless and flowerless area with gravel and shade instead of grass.

In the past vigorous attempts were made to beautify the place, but vegetation seemed unable to survive there. Recently, however, the New York chapter of the Red Cross had the soil analyzed. Then it was fertilized with the materials needed to make it productive. Now it has been sown to seed, some of which has already sprouted. There is promise of a garden of colorful flowers by the middle of the summer. The garden work is done largely by immigrants.

Perhaps the immigrant's first impression of the land of the free doesn't matter much. Still, there is a bit of symbolism in this beautifying of Ellis Island which one may pause to enjoy. This is a beautiful land, yet there may be undeveloped beauties which it will be the immigrant's part to bring out in future years.

ENTERTAINS WITH BRIDGE LUNCHEON

Miss Dorothea Vogel was hostess yesterday to the Wednesday Afternoon Bridge Club of Hollywood, whom she entertained with a bridge luncheon at her home, 525 North Jackson street.

Spring flowers carried out the sumptuous blue and gold color scheme, selected by the hostess for the decorations of her home for the occasion and the same motif was seen in the favors on the luncheon table where a dainty three-course luncheon was served at 1 o'clock.

The first prize at the bridge game following the luncheon was won by Miss Hazel Speers.

"ALTAR SACRAMENT" SUBJECT OF SERMON

The subject of the sermon which Rev. Father James S. O'Neill will preach at the Church of the Holy Family at the 9:30 a. m. mass on Sunday, is the Sacrament of the Altar, based on a text taken from St. John, sixth chapter, 53rd verse: "How can this man give us his flesh to eat?"

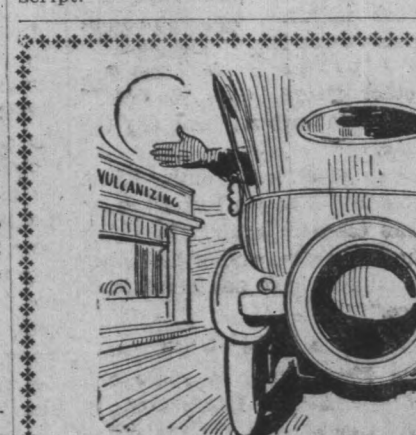

Harry Girard will preside at the organ, and Mrs. Agnes Cain Brown Girard will sing the offertory.

Korah, the Aged

(By International News Service)
LONDON, June 3.—Korah, a native of Cairo, Egypt, has just celebrated his 146th birthday. He is still wonderfully active and manages to look about 70.

"THE LAST WORD" IS SAID
Xyzt is the last word in the English language, according to the Oxford dictionary, which has now said its last word; that is to say, the 40 years toil of Sir James Murray and his coadjutors has come to its end with the last word that can be found to go into it. The Oxford has gone all the other recent dictionaries, one better by discovering "zyxt." And what does it mean? It seems that the word is 14th century Kentish dialect for "seest"—"thou zyxt." It was, indeed, only in recent times that the dictionaries had discovered "zyxomma," which is some kind of fly known to the zoologists.

The real old dictionaries used to end with "zymologist"—meaning one who follows the science of zymology, which is something or other, the writer is not sure what.—Boston Transcript.

HISTORY WILL REPEAT ITSELF

The Motor Truck business will rival the pleasure car business. It is now just at its beginning. Past experience has proven that the Motor Truck business must be conducted as a separate and distinct institution from the automobile business.

Legions of new men will now make fortunes in the Motor Truck business, who get in on the ground floor, as it were, successful Motor Truck salesmen make from $3500 to $5000 a year.

The Peerless Commercial Company with its principal offices in Los Angeles, are organizing an exclusive Motor Truck sales force for one of the best motor trucks known, and appointing a local representative in every community. No experience or capital, and only spare time, supplying information, and advising and assisting their experienced salesmen, is required of these local men. This offers an unusual opportunity for a local man to get started and eventually qualify to attain a position paying $75 to $100 per week, or more.

The transportation problem is today in a very unsatisfactory state. Motor trucks are the solution and are fast coming into general use. It is predicted that "history will repeat itself" and that the Motor Truck business will be the next big money making business of the country, as the automobile business has been during the past decade.

Anyone interested and desiring to get into the Motor Truck business in any capacity, should address for free and full information—

MEETING OF C. E. PAGES AND GUIDES

Pages and Guides appointed for the big Christian Endeavor convention had a rally Thursday night in the bungalow of the Glendale Presbyterian church, about 75 young people being present.

Games were played until all had arrived and then the meeting was opened with prayer by Mr. Hoffman.

Under the leadership of Howard Brown two special convention songs were practiced, viz.: The General Convention Song and the special song for pages and guides, "Here Am I, Send Me."

After that Mr. Hoffman outlined the work of pages and guides. Howard Brown followed with a splendid booster talk in which he held up a high ideal of service and impressed upon his listeners the fact that the success of the convention as a whole would depend in a great measure on their devotion to their own special work and the degree to which they realized their responsibilities. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were then served.

YOUNG PEOPLE PUT ON FINE PROGRAM

A very nice entertainment was given Thursday evening at the Glendale Congregational church by members of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor.

The main feature of the program was a one-act comedy called "A Cup of Coffee," in which eight young women took part—Gladys White, Catherine Guthrie, Winifred Parker, Grace Judd, Gladys Peckham, Edith Storer, Mrs. Blake Franklin and Margaret Frazee.

Selections were played by the Sunday School orchestra consisting of five boys and one girl, led by Mr. Chapell with Mrs. Louis Abell at the piano.

A snappy little sketch was put on by Nellie Rowe and Walter Kohl. There was a vocal solo by Jack Jenkins, a whistling solo by Eva Green, a song entitled "Steal Away," by a boys' chorus, and an entertaining monologue by Milcent Alvord.

For this pleasant evening which was enjoyed by an excellent audience, much credit is given to Miss Doris Barnard, who arranged and directed it.

Glendale Theater

Much of the success of Benjamin B. Hampton productions may be attributed to his careful selection of all-star casts. In "The Killer," from Stewart Edward White's novel, showing at the Glendale theater today and tomorrow, the various roles are interpreted by a group of the strongest and most popular artists in the profession.

Claire Adams, the beautiful star of several Ben Hampton productions, is seen as the girl who falls into the killer's net. Some of her best work with little Frankie Lee of "The Westeners" and "The Miracle Man" fame. The heroic role is portrayed by Jack Conway, former Ben Hampton director, who gave up the megaphone because the producer considered him the ideal character to play the New Yorker who found health, love and adventure in the west.

In the title role Frank Campeau finds his greatest opportunity to display a mastery of expression and subtle fiendishness, as also does Edward Peil as the Mexican, Ramon.

An example of Mr. Hampton's insistence upon realism in characterization is his selection of the famous jockey, Tod Sloan, to play the jockey part of "The Killer."

Palace Grand

The Elks' benefit, "Mrs. Temple's Telegram," which made such a hit at the Palace Grand, is the attraction there again tonight.

Tomorrow's program at the Palace Grand features the Douglas McLean in "The Home Stretch," a picture that stands right up and yells joy and excitement.

Lusby Home Sold

C. D. Lusby has sold his place on East Park avenue to E. Turner, who has moved from 328 North Brand to take possession. The Lusbys have moved to 224 North Louise, where they will live until they build a new home.

Fatal Bumps for Cyclonic Traveler May Bring Comet To Grief

(By International News Service)

LONDON, June 3.—Pons-Winnecke, the short-period comet, which is hurtling through space at a speed of many thousands miles an hour towards the earth, will not have the best of the "bump," according to Prof. A. Fowler, chief lecturer in astronomy at the Imperial Science College, South Kensington.

"It is generally accepted," said the professor, "that we shall come in contact with its tail, if at all. In this event it is possible Pons-Winnecke may become so disintegrated that other self-respecting comets will disown him."

One can picture some scientist in a

Adams of 436 West California, leave today for the Iowa capital, where Mr. Adams, a lecturer of note, will begin his Chautauqua tour. Mr. Adams has been on Chautauqua and Lyceum platforms for the past 15 years. They expect to return to Glendale about September.

Miss Rosalie Gilliland and grandmother, Mrs. Redmond, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Maxwell and son Guy of 202 West Park avenue, at a picnic in Boquet canyon on Wednesday. On the return trip the party visited Fidelity ranch.

few weeks' time picking up a small meteor, the mortal remains of this cyclonic traveler in our space. "Alas, poor Pons, we knew him well!" will doubtless be the comment of the astronomical world.

Professor Fowler was the first scientist to prove that the tails of comets have carbonic oxide gas instead of the deadly cyanogen gas, as was previously supposed.

"When the tail of Pons comes in contact with this earth," continued Professor Fowler, "vast quantities of carbonic oxide, which is an odorless gas, will be absorbed in the atmosphere of this planet. There is no cause for alarm, since the proportion of carbonic oxide is so small in relation to the immense volume of atmosphere round the earth that the effect will be imperceptible. People do not realize how many million tons of atmosphere we breathe weighs. At ground level the weight is 14 pounds to the square inch. In addition to gas the tail will contain meteoric dust—that is, particles of iron and nickel. "As to how a comet is formed I can-

"Tis very sure God walks in mine." Plans for modest homes suitable for a 50-foot lot, with water color sketches of the furnishings, illustrate that artistic arrangement and selection need not depend on the amount of money spent. This is the work of the classes in interior decorating.

An exhibit that attracts much attention is also the work of the interior decorations classes. This is the display of miniature rooms period design adapted to modern needs. All of the tiny furnishings, the draperies, floor coverings, chairs and tables, ornaments and lamps, were made by the students. The work of each one shows study of the period chosen for his rooms, patience and thoroughness in the making of the furnishings, and a sense of harmony in his choice of color, line and design. The exterior of these tiny houses and the tiny gardens are also, given in careful detail.

Exquisite taste is displayed in the work of the classes in applied arts, which include lamp standards, and lamp shades, jewel cases, book ends, stained-glass windows, candlesticks and many other beautiful things. Stencilling and block printing designs on scarfs, centerpieces and draperies show careful study and a real sense of the artistic possessed by members of the classes in design.

The display of designs worked out by students for the Stylus is another interesting feature.

Splendid exhibitions of pencil work, studies in black and white, water colors and pastels, demonstrate the good work done this year by Miss Munson's first-year drawing classes and Miss Abbott's first and second year classes.

How design is influenced by different color schemes and different neutral outlines is shown by an interesting exhibit of the classes in design. The exhibit is open to the public today all day until 10 o'clock this evening. Tomorrow it will be shown from 1 p. m. to 9 p. m.

not tell you, any more than I can tell you, from a scientific point of view, how the earth was formed. Perhaps they come from gases thrown off from the sun, which are gradually cooled. On the other hand, leading authorities on astronomy say that it is clear that comets cannot have originated within the limits of the solar system. They propound the fascinating theory that comets, such as Pons-Winnecke, come from a distance in space so great that it is in terms of miles.

Professor Fowler added that Jupiter, to whose family Pons-Winnecke belongs, may cause a disturbance and so alter the path of the comet that it will reach its nearest point to the earth about June 27, the date on which it is expected.

"When the public interest in Halley's comet became acute I worked out the exact date of the arrival," continued Professor Fowler, "but I should be involved in laborious calculations for days on end if I were to ascertain the day on which Pons will drop his visiting card in the shape of a shower of meteorites."

try—the land of the free and the home of the brave. And, America is greater today than any country that can ever attack us.

"God gave to our ancestors the same gift given to us—the power to think—and it is our duty to think effectively in the aid of our country at all times, and to act in accordance with the constitution and laws with the understanding of the principles on which our government was founded. We are grateful beyond words to express for our inheritance and must prove ourselves worthy of the trust that has been left to the Puritan descendants. Effective thinking on this subject is the blossom of concentrated patriotic thought, and it consumes months and years of both thought and action to string these rose beads of worthy citizenship and loyal Americanism into a long necklace of the life guardianship of the principles left in our care by our glorious forefathers.

"It is our privilege and duty to aid in the development of aliens who come to our land to make their homes in our midst. Our educational methods and the work done by our chapters among the foreigners who are invited to learn American ways of living, as in the Albion school where Miss Ida Myers has done so much efficient work and where all of our D. A. R. chapters have aided her so generously in striving, not only to teach these people to read our language, but to use our ways in housekeeping and in the care of their children.

"The mind is like a piano. The thoughts are the fingers playing upon it to bring out the music of the soul. Now, we must help these people to bring out harmony of thought and action in our beloved country by playing on their minds the grand music of loyalty and patriotism and by teaching them to love our institutions and customs. In doing this work for the aliens, we, the Daughters and Sons of the American Revolution, are valiantly working, as did our forefathers, for the lasting benefit of our country and for the perpetuation of the God-given principles on which America was founded."

Mr. Braly was present and responded when called upon, giving one of his characteristic talks on "Then and Now," based upon his own observations from boyhood days to the present time. As a son of a prophet, he predicted that California is to be the great center in the civilized world in years to come. Because he has lived longer than most, he declared he could see farther, having had longer experience than falls to the lot of the majority of men, in watching the trend of world affairs.

Other members of the chapter responded to roll-call with patriotic sentiments.

It would not be fair to compare this with other "white breakfasts," because each has its own particular shrine in the memories of chapter members, but it can be said that this breakfast will be long remembered. Vieng with the silken poppies in beautifying the pretty luncheon table were cornflowers and gay everlastings, artfully placed.

Audience Assembles for Zoning Ordinance Hearing

The board voted to grant a request for a permit to establish a public garage on lot No. 9 of the Hamilton & Gridler tract.

Grand View Street Names

On the recommendation of the city manager, the hearing on the street names in the Grand View district was continued until August, as several new streets in that locality are to be dedicated and named. A hearing in regard to varieties of street trees to be planted on Gardena avenue was also postponed until August.

Oak Street Improvement

Relative to the improvement of Oak street, the board instructed the city manager to call a meeting of interested property owners to discuss the proposed improvement, June 6, at 7:45 p. m., in the council chambers. The city clerk was instructed to advertise for bids on automatic oil circuit breakers.

Electric Light Globes

City Manager Watson reported that the Gill Glass company of Philadelphia had submitted the lowest bid for electric light globes, and on his recommendation the board voted to accept it.

Contracts covering the Ford roadster and truck, the purchase of which had been authorized by the board, were submitted by the city manager, and the board voted to instruct the

Rice Puddings
Boiled rice is the basis of many attractive and healthful desserts. Molded plain or mixed with cream and the stiffly beaten white of an egg and molded, topped with shredded fruit, and a little fruit syrup poured over the whole, it is palatable and slightly. Do not use too much rice. Rice pudding with raisins has too long been a popular dessert to need any more than mention here.

Short biscuit dough, baked, split, buttered and filled with fruit makes the individual shortcake. For me this makes the best of all strawberry shortcakes. The sweet egg cakes so often used detract too much from the fragrance and flavor of the berry.

The protest of J. C. Anderson relative to trespass on his property line by the city's sidewalk, was ordered filed pending further investigation by the city manager.

An ordinance changing and establishing the grade on Brand boulevard between San Fernando road and the Southern Pacific tracks, was introduced and laid over for one week.

A resolution to award the contract for the improvement of Arden avenue to Mr. Henderson, was adopted.

A new resolution providing for lot cleaning was offered and adopted. The city manager stated that the work along that line now being done is limited to lots adjoining improved property which might be endangered by grass fires.

The board adjourned to meet again Monday evening at 7:45.

CONTROL YOURSELF

Are you easily insulted?
Does the slightest intimation of your being what you should not be rouse you to the fighting point?
So you belong to the class which proudly boasts, "No one can impose on me?"
You think this denotes power, self-reliance, fearlessness?
To the contrary, it usually means you are not big enough and broad enough to be above inconsequential things—the minor things of life.
The man of large brain caliber is not an easily insulted person.
A fistic encounter is something he resorts to only when there is no other way out with honor.
The man who is quick to offer insult is small in a mental way.
If you want to prove yourself mentally his superior you must be above his taunts.
Someone has aptly said that "in most cases the chip on a

ARE YOU AFRAID OF CRITICISM?

It is useless to be fearless and just and, at the same time, avoid hurting the feelings of some persons—it can't be done.
If you do anything worth while you must expect to have some enemies.
If you would be more than a little person in a very small sphere you are bound to rouse censure and hear some very uncomplimentary remarks about yourself.
All men who do things—big things—make enemies.
A fearless writer usually has a goodly following of well-wishers and admirers, but he also has a good many enemies, who seek at every opportunity to knock him and his work.
The man holding the highest political office is often called incompetent by those who are far below him in mental caliber and capacity.
And so it goes all along the line of man's advancement.
If you care more about persons speaking well of you than you do for the principles which actuate your life, or if you prefer not to be mentioned rather than to be criticized, it is just as well for you to go along in your spineless way, for your mental concept is wrong.

man's shoulder is a splinter which has fallen from the block above."
Prove your bigness of manhood or womanhood by being slow to recognize an insult, even when the sneering eyes locate the object of insult to your very face. Besides, it hurts the other fellow worse to have his shaft of ill-natured, insulting criticism fall aslant.

GRAVE AND GAY

Land in London comes high! A recent real estate transaction in the heart of the city has set the figure at $10,500,000 an acre. One square mile in London is valued at $750,000,000. There are places where one square inch is worth $1.25.

Brazil is some country, although few realize it, until we have some of the conceit taken out of us by the realization that we could put the entire area of the United States, including Alaska, into Brazil, and then there would still be 200,000 square miles margin!

An oath in Siam means something. Here is part of an oath taken by one who swears loyalty to the sovereign: "May the blood drop from my body; may my head break in two; may I be compelled to carry water in wicker baskets to quench the flames of hell; may I suffer the most horrible tortures until my years are as many as the grains of sand by the sea, if I violate this, my solemn oath."
And this is not all. There are 20 lines more.

The dinner table has its heroes as well as the battlefield. As, for instance, when Lord Chesterfield, in order to make an uneducated friend feel at home, drank his own tea from his saucer as his friend was doing. Martha Washington, however, displayed greater heroism when, at her first state dinner, she ate cream that had turned decidedly rancid rather than show that she had noticed the unfortunate mishap; while the other guests, as Mrs. Robert Morris and others, and even George Washington himself, passed their napkins to their mouths and relieved themselves of the unpalatable morsel.

Nathaniel Hawthorne's handwriting was so illegible that some of his manuscripts remained unpublished because nobody could read them. This was likewise true of Carlyle. The story is told of a type compositor who was employed by a London printing office because of a strong recommendation which he brought with him from Scotland. The first piece of manuscript given to him to set was by Carlyle.

"My God!" said the new typesetter. "Have you got that man here, too? I fled from Scotland to avoid him!"

Your left foot is larger than your right—in 99 cases out of 100. Science explains it in many ways; but we accept the easiest one, which is that we are a world of left-footed loungers. We lean against posts and door jams, and we do most of our leaning on the left foot; consequently, through the years it has grown to support the weight that the lazy right foot doesn't. The next time you buy shoes, have your left foot measured first.

A man sang at his own funeral lately—that is, talking-machine records were put on a machine and while the man lay in his coffin his own voice sang: "Rock of Ages" and "I'm a Pilgrim."

A party of Americans were dining in Paris with Premier Clemenceau, when one of the Americans was heard to say: "I'll bet she will—"

"I wouldn't do that," interposed Clemenceau, "—bet on anything that she will do. You can never tell what a woman will do."

"Ah," said the American, "but you interrupted me too soon, monsieur. I was going to say that I would bet that she would do the unexpected."

"Ah, but don't do that, either," cautioned Clemenceau. "Even that is not a safe bet."

It is curious that a homeless man wrote the most enduring song about home. Only the other day I was reading what John Howard Payne, the author of "Home, Sweet Home," wrote about his famous song:
"How often have I been in the heart of Paris, Berlin, London or some other city, and have heard persons singing or heard organs playing 'Home Sweet Home' without having a shilling to buy myself the next meal or a place to lay my head! The world has literally sung my song till every heart is familiar with its melody, yet I have been a wanderer from my boyhood, and, in my old age, have to submit to humiliation for my bread."

The literary feat of a volume a week, kept up for one year by the elder Alexander Dumas, has as yet never been equaled by an author of I fled from Scotland to avoid him!"

Series of Articles on Patents, Inventions, Etc.

By WILLIAM C. CUTLER of Glendale, California

Q.—Simplification. Does it involve invention?

A.—To determine whether a simple structure involves invention is one of the most difficult of all tasks for patent attorney, patent office and the court. If the combination is obvious—plain to anyone who desires to secure the result—involving mere mechanical skill, it does not merit the title of invention. Many patents have been overthrown for this reason.

Q.—New use of an old invention. Is it patentable?

A.—Not usually, but when combined with other things in a new way, yes.

Q.—Changes in form. Why are they not patentable?

A.—Because, if no different result is produced, the act is but a mere change in mechanical structure.

Q.—System and arrangements. Why are they not patentable?

A.—Because they are but a series of well-known methods, the different steps in no way modifying one another. Bookkeeping, billing and restaurant checking systems have been decided unpatentable.

Q.—Lack of novelty or utility. Why are things unpatentable which do not possess these qualities?

A.—Because the statutes state they must possess them to be patentable.

Q.—Use or sale before application. Does it prevent patenting?

A.—Yes, it may be under certain conditions.

Q.—Previous use. Does it result in loss of rights?

A.—Yes, if the use has been public or sales have been made more than two years before patent is applied for. There is absolutely no exception to this rule. There is no way to evade it. The statute reads, "An invention is patentable if not in public use, or on sale for more than two years prior to his application." This is one of the reasons why the author suggests a commercial search being made before patent application is filed.

Q.—Public use. How does it differ from experimental use?

A.—A single unrestricted sale by the inventor of his invention puts it "on sale" within the meaning of the statute. Use of articles for more than two years in the inventor's shop, was deemed "public use" according to a decision. Where an inventor was unable to make the test of his invention himself, a sale of one article was not deemed "public use." However had he made the sale and been able to have made the test himself, the decision would have been reversed.

Q.—Prior knowledge of a thing, or its use by others. Does it prevent patenting?

A.—Yes, as ignorance of the criminal law excuses no one, the patent law also presumes (takes the position) and properly, that every one is fully informed of everything that comes before in the art in which he is interested.

Q.—Prior description. Does it prevent patenting?

A.—Yes, if the description in a publication is made more than two years before the patent application, and clearly and explicitly discloses the invention, so that it may be made without further experiment.

Note. Two erroneous impressions are corrected by the answers to the answers to the last two questions.

First. That if someone had previously attempted to accomplish a certain result and failed, the fact of the attempt having been made acts as a bar to a valid patent being secured by an inventor who may later accomplish it. The impression is wrong, and is created and spreads in this way. A man, in conversation with another, will state he is working on some device.

The person addressed will reply, in a tone which suggests superior knowledge as regards things patentable, "Oh, that has been tried long ago." The impression created is that the experimenter may as well discontinue because he could not protect it. Whereas, in point of fact, the abandonment of the experiment is the very reason he should continue, as it is not a bar to a valid patent. The work of others along the same line indicates the desirability of the device, and an unsuccessful effort is a presumption that imitation by others will be in a degree difficult.

Second. That if made abroad a structure cannot be patented in the United States under any conditions. The author has known of inventors discontinuing experiments on being informed that a similar device has been found in a foreign country. Instead, a search should be made to determine whether the construction had been patented or had been "before known" or "described" in the sense that is required to prevent the successful issue of a valid patent in the United States.

STUDIO NEWS AND GOSSIP

Robertson-Cole Announcement

The Robertson-Cole organization has sent the first real gleam of hope into the west coast motion picture colony since the beginning of the slump in picture production by announcing that its recently completed million-dollar studio will soon be reopened with four or more producing units. Pauline Frederick has settled her salary difference with the big firm and soon will start filming worthwhile pictures in which she will appear on a salary and a profit-sharing basis. This really means that this most gifted actress will have a voice in the selection of scenarios for her own use and that because of that fact she will be enabled to do the best work of her screen career. With three other companies in the studio there necessarily will be three more stars in the organization. Just who will be the lucky players to receive the film crown has not been made known. To the members of the film colony the reopening announcement is like unto manna from heaven, for it will mean employment for hundreds of persons who are not used to being numbered in the idle class.

Concentrated Photodrama

William de Mille, Paramount producer de luxe, is a staunch advocate of the small cast idea for pictures. He believes the fewer actors there are the better it will be for pictures in an artistic as well as financial sense. His idea is to compel the attention of viewers by the sheer force of dramatic excellence rather than to attempt to enthrall them by mob and spectacular effects. With him, the story is the big thing and with a small cast of capable actors, such as he employed in the production of "Midsummer Madness," he believes satisfaction can be obtained and with box office results of the first order. In his current picture, "Back Stage," by Rita Weiman, there are just four players and one of these has very little to do. The others are on the screen the greater part of the time. Their acting is said to be of the highest order of screen merit, the story all that a director could ask for and the opportunity, for masterly directorial work remarkable. All Hollywood is interested in the production.

Value of Desserts

It is well to have desserts even if it is necessary to keep down your food costs. For they add to the meal certain necessary elements which the system craves, besides making a pleasant finish to it.

And also, where there are children, clearing away the dishes of the former course and serving a dessert on a pretty plate—even though it is the simplest dessert imaginable—helps the child form the gracious manners of well-bred individuals.

Vary With Meals

Generally speaking, desserts should be light, although they must vary with the character of the meal at which they are served.

In the average household there are but two courses, the main or meat course and the dessert. If the main part of the meal is meatless or rather light, the sustenance needed may be gained by eating a dessert which has eggs and milk as the foundation.

A Plea for Pie

We hear much about the deleterious effects of pie, but I have always been a rank disbeliever. How a flaky pie crust, holding up a custard or some well-cooked fruit, can be harmful it is very hard for me to understand, especially as my grandmother, who, at 94, manages the affairs of her house and her farm, considers pie an attractive addition to breakfast, and in my own home, although we have gotten away from the breakfast habits of our pioneer ancestors, pie is a favorite dessert, served two or more times a week. In both cases any form of indigestion is practically nonexistent.

The Steamed Pudding

Steamed suet puddings are heavier and a little too large a portion can give one a sense of uncomfortable dullness. Still, on a cold day, a small piece with a good hard sauce is one of the most satisfying desserts. With the coming of summer they should be dispensed with; our appetite as well as our common sense tells us this.

A little whipped cream makes a tempting dessert to any canned or fresh fruit. Whipped cream is not as expensive as it sounds, as a little goes a long way, and it is one of the best of foods. Fruit whips are made by mashing any fruit uncooked if it is soft enough, and cooked if hard like apples—and, if desired, beating in the beaten white of an egg. Served in tall stemmed glasses with a bit of whipped cream or a bit of jelly, it is as attractive and delicious as it is in-

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS WILL ENTERTAIN MEMBERS FROM VAN NUYS

The next event in the local Knights of Pythias lodge will be visiting night for the boys of Van Nuys lodge, who invariably bring a bunch of joy and good fellowship with them. The fraternal visits between these two lodges has been very productive to the membership of each lodge. It is desired that "Van Nuys" night will be recognized in Glendale by a big turnout.

Many new membership applications are being received by the local lodge and as soon as the drive is completed the initiation fee will be raised. A large class will soon be initiated, in which will be included members of our new orchestra.

Preparations have been made to have every Pythian, his family and friends to go to the Forest Lawn Memorial Park on Sunday, June 5, at 2 p. m., to participate in the annual Pythian memorial services.

26 Lodges Will Participate
An excellent program has been prepared which includes J. Stanley Brown, grand chancellor of the domain of California as the principal speaker. Ample seating capacity. The members will bring flowers and assist in decorating the graves in the Knights of Pythias' Plot.

MRS. MORGAN IS HOSTESS AT PARTY

Among the most enjoyable and successful social functions of the week were the afternoon tea and evening card party given yesterday by Mrs. T. J. Morgan, 1142 Campbell street, to the ladies of the Church of the Holy Family and their friends.

Music and conversation were the pastimes of the pleasant afternoon affair, the musical numbers being given by Mrs. Tom Smith, pianist, and Miss Dorothea Vogel, vocalist.

Whist was the main diversion of the evening hours; the ladies' first prize was won by Mrs. Blanchet, while first prize for gentlemen was awarded to Mr. Blanchet. Winners of the consolation prizes were Miss Reed and Harry R. Goodwin.

An informal dance was enjoyed at the close of the game.

Refreshments of coffee, sandwiches and cake were served at both these social meetings, the hostess being assisted by Meses. George Humber, F. Clark, T. J. Keleher, Stiles, McClean,

CERRITOS HAS FINE MUSICAL PROGRAM

The last meeting of the Cerritos Avenue Parent-Teacher Association for the year was held on Thursday afternoon and was marked by a most enjoyable program, which included piano solos by Miss Audrey Hayes of the eighth grade, and Mr. Lofton, one of the teachers in the Glendale schools; a vocal solo by Mrs. E. B. Moore, president of the association; a short dramatized version of "Rip Van Winkle" by the eighth grade pupils, which resulted from their regular class work in English, and an instructive address by Dr. Paul K. Sellow on "The Life of the Eye."

Dr. Sellow discussed the cause of some of the eye troubles prevalent among children and suggested measures for relief. At the conclusion of his address many questions were put to him concerning the care of the eyes.

The eighth grade pupils divided their "Rip Van Winkle" play into three acts: Act 1, Dialogue between Rip and his scolding wife, Dame Van Winkle; 2, a neighborly chat around the inn; act 3, Rip's return after an absence of 20 years.

Miriam Letts bridge for the audience the lapse in time between the acts by sketching the events that had taken place between them.

Mrs. Eustace B. Moore, the retiring president, was presented with a bouquet of flowers and an Eversharp pencil; Mrs. E. L. Adams, the newly-elected president, making the presentation speech, in which she voiced the appreciation of the members of the association for the splendid work done by Mrs. Moore as its president for the past two years.

H. H. Tisdale has arrived at the home of his mother, Mrs. Gertrude Tisdale at 336 West Acacia. He comes from Winslow, Ariz., where he has been train master of the Santa Fe system at that point for the past three years. He will now make his home in Glendale and has taken up work in the office of the assistant general manager of the Santa Fe in Los Angeles.

Misses Hipple, Irene Morgan and Ann Morgan.

A silver offering increased the ladies' share of the church building fund by $70.

BIG BANQUET FOR WORKING STUDENTS

Guests who enjoyed the C. O. D. E. S. banquet at Glendale Union high school, Thursday night, are talking yet about the good things they had to eat and the pretty setting provided for the spread.

The menu provided by Miss Hanson, head of the domestic science department assisted by girls of the beginning class, included: Fruit salad, prime rib roast with browned potatoes, creamed peas in timbale cases, pickled beets, rolls and butter. The dessert of cake and ice cream with raspberry sauce, was followed by after dinner coffee.

The participants in this good time are also enthusiastic over the toast. Principal Moyses was expected to take part in this part of the program, but was unable to be there.

Kathleen Campbell, whose toast was "The Stylus," told some interesting things about that much cherished publication and its important place in the school life.

Miss Gardner who responded to "The Student Body," dwelt on its activities as a whole and the creditable record they made. We cannot all be soloists, she declared, but we can all be good accompanists.

Francis Read gladly gave the toast "To the Athletes," who he felt were deserving of all praise for their big contributions to the school life.

Dale Wood eulogized "Our Cook-sters," dwelling on the important place they fill in the home life of our country, bringing in a new version of the joke about burnt offerings.

Tom McNary who responded to "As We Leave," expressed the sentiments of regret which animate the breasts of seniors on quitting the school.

Arden Ginery talked of the responsibilities of Freshmen as they gaze on the three years ahead of them.

Debaters were toasted by John Worley who was one of them last year.

"School Activities" was the theme of an excellent toast by Mr. Ferguson, in which he declared that unless these activities are properly kept up all the school spirit and pep will die out.

In 1886 the United States demanded that France withdraw her military forces from Mexico, which was immediately done.

MUSIC IS LAUDED AS ASSET TO GLENDALE BY MRS. MATTISON B. JONES

"The war demonstrated that music is not just an incident in our lives, but a force. It gave courage to our soldiers and kept them from being homesick. It led our boys singing over the top.

"Longfellow has said: 'Show me a home where music is and I will show you a happy and contented home.' We might change that by saying: 'Show me a community where music is and I will show you a contented community.'"

"In singing people forget their grievances. In thus coming together we forget differences of the past and are able to better work together. I am glad the Chamber of Commerce has adopted the idea of community singing. When Martin Luther began his work the people were not allowed to come together and sing. He introduced congregational singing, and who can measure how great a part it played in the reformation?"

"Music clarifies our national vision and helps to clear away many differences.

"In Glendale we have many musical organizations all doing fine work, but none of which exactly fills the niche of the Glendale Music Club. It has a wonderful junior organization of 60 young men and women and a splendid juvenile organization of 70 members. All these children are studying under the tuition of local teachers, and we propose to have programs which will be 'pupils' days,' when the fathers and mothers will be invited. If we want to promote music in America we must begin with the young. Now that we are the heirs of what all the other countries of the world have done, every citizen should feel it to be his or her duty to spread the gospel of good music."

Mrs. Jones referred to the notoriety that Santa Ana has achieved by reason of the jail in which it has confined certain movie stars who have violated its speed laws, and then she commented on the wonderful musical organization of 1250 members in that city, besides eight other music clubs, and said:

"Why do we not advertise the things that are worth while in our communities?"

"As a nation we must learn to recognize music as an asset to our country. We should also realize that music is a profession. How often do we have a big program of entertainment and pay for everything else and then ask the musicians to play for nothing! Is it right?"

"We want in Glendale a musical organization that is not surpassed by any other in the state. If we can put this organization on its feet financially and make it strong with the backing of our citizens, there is no reason why we cannot have many departments. If we could have one studying and producing great oratorios, would not that be a great advertisement for Glendale? I want you to realize what an asset music may become to Glendale. I also want to invite you all to the banquet to be given June 6 at the First Methodist church, at which Charles Wakefield Cadman, one of the foremost American composers, will be present; also Vernon Spencer, well-known as a composer, a speaker and fine gentleman."

CHRONICLES OF DAUGHTERS OF AMERICAN REVOLUTION

Miss Ida Myers Gives Clever Toast at La Ramada Banquet of General Richard Gridley Chapter, Daughters of American Revolution, of This City

The very clever response to the toast, "The Albion School," made by Miss Ida Myers at the "White Breakfast" of the General Richard Gridley Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution at La Ramada on Thursday, June 2, is published herewith:

Now this is according as it is written in the book of D. A. R. Chronicles for the year 1920-1921, and contains the names and number of offerings brought for Patriotic Education by the General Richard Gridley Chapter, D. A. R.

And it came to pass when the daughters were assembled in the month of June, 1920, to consult together, that the beloved regent, Mrs. J. H. Braly, a woman of wisdom and famed throughout the land for hospitality and mighty deeds of goodness, appointed captains to command various forces of her powerful band, and the women all were of one heart to serve their regent and daughters with strength and gladness.

The captain chosen to be over Patriotic Education was Miss Ida D. Myers, who was counselled to be ever mindful of strangers who have come from other lands to dwell within our gates, and continually with stretched out hand, do good to people of all nations.

So this captain went forth to seek where need was great, and the Albion Street School in the neighboring city of Los Angeles, entreated for help, and these people put their trust in this mighty band of devoted daughters of Glendale.

So when the band was again assembled, this same captain spoke: "If it seem good unto you, O! regent and daughters, let us bring continually a portion from our storehouses, to my dwelling place, and let us minister unto these our brethren, whose need is so great." And the hearts of the daughters were stirred and they said they would quickly do so, for the work was right in the eyes of all this loyal band. Then the regent and daughters rejoiced in the good work and brought willingly and gladly much of their possessions.

Now these mentioned were some of the things given: Several pieces of silver; wearing apparel in great abundance for men, women and children; shoes to the number of 48 pairs; stockings to the number of 100 pairs; a goodly number of hats, bags, hair-ribbons, neckties and collars; handkerchiefs; many pieces of cloth; pictures, large and small; rugs; balls and paper dolls, and stuffed animals for the little ones. Moreover there was much sheet music, and magazines and books in great numbers; and these mentioned by name were not all. Then the captain took counsel with Mrs. J. A. Crawford, a woman endowed with prudence and understanding, and skilful to drive a chariot, and together with gladness they bore the many offerings at divers times to the Albion Street School, where they were greeted with shouts of joy. Moreover Miss Graff, the leader there, a woman full of good deeds, wisely dispensed to her people, both men, women and children, a coat, a garment, a pair of shoes, a book, a ball, as the need, and the people rejoiced greatly and gave thanks, and help and comfort beyond expression in words, was given those who dwell in the shadow of that school.

And the heart of the captain was glad for such a multitude of offerings, and these are the things that were numbered: In silver, $10; 500 articles of wearing apparel and household goods; 153 pieces of sheet music; 210 pictures, large and small; 1188 magazines and books.

O regent and daughters, for they brethren's sake and according to the kindness of thy hearts, have thou done all this greatness in giving such abundance.

O regent and daughters, there are none like thee, goodness and kindness come from thee and in thy hands are power and might to give strength and help unto all in need.

Now, therefore, O regent and daughters, thanks for all these things, of thine own generosity has been given, yea, good has been done that remaineth long in the hearts of these thy brethren. So again thanks, and with joy and gladness your captain makes known your loving kindness and wondrous works.

My Imaginary Home

The following letter was received by the Glendale Daily Press from a little girl pupil of Colorado street school, aged ten years.

Editor Glendale Press: My father was an old man, but he was very, very rich. We lived in a beautiful home in New York city. In front of this home was a big lawn on which I liked to play. My father was not only rich, he was a millionaire and I did not have to go to school but had my lessons at home.

We had a baby grand piano that I liked to play on.

We had a big high fence around the house and lawn so that no one could destroy anything.

Our home was not exactly a house, it was a castle, a beautiful castle. On my birthday many men came to the castle and tore down the towers. We moved to a big brick house, but though it was pretty it was not a castle.

My father and mother died and left me alone and some one came and got me and took me away. That man was a millionaire too and I was happy and contented in his home.

LILLAH LOUISE GIBBS.

YOUNG PEOPLE ARE ACTIVE IN WORK

Wednesday night marked the largest attendance at the Epworthian prayer meeting inaugurated by the young people of the First Methodist church. Not less than 50 were present.

At a meeting of the Epworth League which followed the prayer service, several matters were decided, the most important being the establishment of an Epworth League paper, to be published twice a month. While the name has not been definitely selected, it will probably be called the "Epworthian." The staff as selected to date, is:

Robert K. Crist, general editor; H. Malone, managing editor; Mrs. Alice Murphy, Epworth League editor; Elwood Ingledue, sporting editor; Dorothy Peart, society editor; Dorothy Hamilton, exchange and joke editor.

The young people expect to make it a very lively sheet.

CANDIDATES FOR G. U. H. S. OFFICES

Contest Promises To Be Smart
But Good-Natured for Every Position

Petitions have been circulating this week among the students of Glendale high for candidates for offices in the cabinet of the student body. It is quite like a political campaign in the world of politics outside and excitement will probably run high before the election takes place June 7, although it will be an entirely good-natured affair with no bitterness left behind. As far as listed to date the candidates are:

President, Victor Colburn, Paul Hutchinson, Dale Wood; secretary of assemblies, Paul Holland, Lucy Strother; secretary of debating, Kathleen Campbell; secretary of publications, George Jordan, and Helen Ponton; secretary of athletics, Fred Terzo and Robert McCourt.

EVEN NEW YORK HAS HER ILLITERATES

It is hard to conceive that there is any one in the civilized world who has not heard of Caruso, and yet right in New York, not so very long ago, an incident happened that shows what a funny thing fame is. It was a benefit performance and a well-known knockabout song-and-dance man was to go at 8 o'clock in order to get back to his own theater in time to make his regular appearance at 11 o'clock. As he waited in the wings he noticed a heavy-set man walking to and fro with an air of impatience on the other side of the stage. "Who is that guy over there?" he asked the stage manager. "Why, that's Caruso," replied the manager in surprise. "He's going to sing a couple of songs for us." "Never heard of him," snapped the comedian, "but you tell him he can sing anything he wants to as long as he lays off 'The Darktown Strutters' Ball.' I use that for my opening and I don't want it crabbled."

Fish are believed to have a keen sense of smell.

Gold "Grows" Claims Famous Engineer

Cites Case of Wautoga Mine, Where New "Crops" of Gold Were Found Long After the Mine Had Panned Out—Claims Gold Is Perishable

By MICHAEL F. DACEY
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

DENVER, June 3.—That gold, the most precious of metals, actually "grows" is the contention of Peter McFarlane, widely known mining engineer, in a pamphlet issued here, in which many previously accepted scientific rules relating to the production of gold mining industry of Colorado for more than half a century, having been one of the pioneers in the Central City gold fields.

In his pamphlet, entitled "Grown Gold," McFarlane sets forth many startling results of his 50 years' observation of gold mining development in this region, citing instances of the actual growing of gold in veins that had yielded much of the yellow metal and had been declared "panned out," only to be reopened with an increased production from the "ribbon" that supposedly had given up its last ounce of gold.

"If to eradicate an error and establish a truism in its place would be of benefit to humanity," McFarlane hopes, by promulgation of his new theory to enable those interested in gold mining to set aside a "dangerous and misleading fallacy that has existed since man began his hunt for gold, and put miners in possession of a truth that will result in greater assurance of financial success in every phase of auriferous mining."

Says Gold Is Perishable

Disputing all accepted scientific determination, McFarlane declares that not only does gold "grow," but that the immutable metal is perishable.

For centuries, McFarlane says, mining engineers have been timid about predicting just where gold would be found because of Job's Scriptural advice, given 5000 years ago, that "gold is where you find it," and he proceeds to shatter all precedents by declaring that, while gold will not "grow" everywhere in a mine, "it will grow in every auriferous vein where opportunity is given to manifest itself."

"It may be broadly stated," McFarlane says, "that there is not a gold bearing fissure that has an apex on the face of the globe but in some way or other produces a crop of grown 'gold.'"

In relating occurrences in his experience of the actual growing of gold, McFarlane points out how this phenomena has deceived experts of undoubted authority and the utmost integrity, men who probably never suspected that gold "grows."

Cites Specific Mine

In November, 1869, according to McFarlane, together with several other gold seekers, he started operations in the Wautoga mine in the Russell district of the Georgetown "loop," about 40 miles from Denver. The crevice of this mine was well defined and of the true fissure type. The mine had been worked before, but for years had lain idle, being abandoned because it had "panned out." The first shipment of ore under the McFarlane regime from this mine assayed $33 per ton in gold. The second shipment showed very little gold, and the third shipment gave only a "trace," whereupon the Wautoga was once more abandoned.

Twenty-seven years later a new company operated the Wautoga property, resuming where the McFarlane intefests had ceased work, and for the second time upon reopening the first shipment of ore contained gold in paying quantities. Like on the preceding occasions, however, the ore dwindled in gold value as the operations continued.

"It always seemed strange that each time the Wautoga was worked," McFarlane writes, "that the start-up produced an ore carrying more gold than was sustained by ores broken afterward, or during its period of constant exploitation, but no extensive investigation of the cause was made at that time."

Gradually, however, he idea dawned upon McFarlane that the gold appearing in the first shipment grew on the face of the exposed mineral, and his investigations, covering a period of 50 years, have confirmed this to be a fact, he says.

McFarlane advocates the passage of a bill pending in congress allowing a bonus on each ounce of new gold delivered to United States mints, and also sounds a warning against the country permitting its gold reserve to diminish.

AGED PASTOR TO WED SECOND TIME

(By International News Service)
RIDGEFIELD, Wash., June 3.—"Wedding bells ring as merrily for the old as for the young," says Pastor Andrew Jackson Stover of the Seventh Day Adventist church, who at the age of 85 contemplates his second adventure in matrimony.

Late in May Mrs. Sarah R. Le Master of Norwich, N. Y., a widow, 65, an old acquaintance of Stover, will become his second wife. After the ceremony the newlyweds will make their home in Ridgefield.

Elder Stover was first married in Indiana in 1855 and spent 65 years of wedded life, his wife dying here a year ago. Through this marriage eight children were born, five of whom are living, with about 65 grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Stover has been a member of the Adventist church for 61 years, and during this time organized eight churches in the northwest. He has preached for more than 40 years.

Before coming to the northwest Stover was prominent in religious circles in Indiana, Iowa, Kansas and Colorado.

Despite his advanced years Mr. Stover can do a fair day's work. For more than 55 years he has lived on two meals a day, and bars from his table tea and coffee. He uses little fresh meat or butter and never indulges in alcoholic drinks or tobacco. To his method of living Rev. Stover ascribes his wonderfully robust health.

Without Stomach 42 Years

(By International News Service)
LONDON, June 3.—How a woman has lived 42 years without a stomach was described at the Academy of Medicine by Dr. Victor Panchet, the eminent Paris surgeon.

She was suffering from severe gastric ulcer. The whole stomach was removed and the tube leading from the gullet was sewn directly to the duodenal canal, thus conveying food direct to the intestines.

For a week she was given no food. Then normal nourishment was resumed. The woman now declares that she is in perfect health and has gained 22 pounds in weight.

REDDING, Calif., June 2.—Sleeping sickness claimed its first victim in Shasta county last night when Willie Philpot, five-year-old son of William Philpot, died at his home at Anderson after sleeping for over three weeks.

MISS DUNCAN WANTS TO WED ENGLISHMAN

By EARL C. REEVES
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
LONDON, June 3.—Isadora Duncan has thought things over. Life is cruel. Years ago England was cruel to her.

It let her starve. But this is her decision:

"If I had my life to live over again I think I should marry a nice Englishman and live in the country."

Isadora married to a quiet and retiring Englishman and settled for a whole lifetime in a secluded nook in the hills is a picture in striking contrast with the dancer's rather turbulent history.

"I have been motoring in the country and when I felt the sun and saw the primroses I felt that the people who, after all, get most happiness are those who work on the earth and never try to do anything else," said Miss Duncan.

The boulevards of Paris may well be shocked at that. And even more startled for her preference for London, considering:

"I came to London in 1899. I danced like a sunbeam. I danced like an angel in the Fra Angelico pictures, I danced like a streak of lightning."

"I was lovely. One is always lovely at eighteen. I had, unconsciously, discovered this new thing, and I danced for the critics then."

Landlady Not An Artist
"Well, a landlady seized my trunks. I used to sit on the graves of an old churchyard in Chelsea and wonder if I wouldn't be better under the earth."

"If you would only dance at Lady So-and-So's," people told me, "your success would be made."

"After I had lived on penny soups for a week I would dance at Lady So-and-So's and she would afterward ask me if I would like some strawberries. Once at Chelsea House, somebody showed me a basketful of gold. 'Look what you have made for the blind girls,' they said, and brought me a cup of tea. I was starving and too shy to ask for a muffin."

"I starved in London for a year, then, leaving my grandmother's jewelry in pawnshops, I went to Paris and starved there. Then I went to Berlin and made a success."

The success, she declares, was startling. "After never having enough to eat it seemed so wonderful to be making $5000 a night that I put an advertisement in the papers saying that I was now so rich I would adopt forty little girls."

"I wanted to give them the wonderful education I had always wanted myself. They were poor, half-crippled children that were brought to me, but in a year they were the loveliest in Berlin."

Obscene Modern Dancing
"The Kaiser was against my having a school there. He thought it revolutionary, but one day he saw the children walking and asked: 'Whose are those beautiful children?' "What I taught them was not dancing but expression of life."

But the "children" of today, the girls who make up the chorus of the music hall stage, they are indeed to be pitied, even by Isadora, who has twinkled over the footlights for more than twenty years.

"The other night I was taken to see a musical comedy," she said, "and could not keep back my tears at the sight of beautiful children kicking up their heels, saying ridiculous words and making obscene movements. What is to become of them?"

"But to have performances every night seems to me like prostituting the theater. I would like to have theaters where drama and music and dancing should all be given without strangling one another, and I would have four performances a year."

"People should go in for purification and inspiration. They should hear such grand words that their whole lives would be uplifted."

"Theaters ought to be free. If anybody is paid, the people should be paid to go."

GASOLINE WILL COST TOO MUCH

(By International News Service)
STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Calif., June 3.—Until there are intercollegiate contests in toddling and road-burning I hope the student will frown on student automobiles and that they will help foolish parents not to ruin their boys and girls with too much money and too much gasoline. President Ray Lyman Wilbur of Stanford University told an assemblage of students today.

"The two great obstacles to student success in competitive debates and athletic contests are excessive dancing, with expensive entertainment, and the automobile," he added.
